

Economic Forum Inaugural Event: The Rebound

When	Where	Cost
Monday, November 16, 2009 5:45 – 8:00 pm Panel Discussion	Thomson Reuters World Headquarters Three Times Square (Entrance on 7 th Avenue near 42 nd Street) NYC	$30 FWA Members $45 Non-Members Free* – Thomson Reuters Employees

In this inaugural Economic Forum, some of the keenest minds in the financial industry – top women on Wall Street - will highlight key directions they perceive in:

- GDP and global growth – equity market sectors to watch
- Banking landscapes –international competition, the shape of regulation
- Strength of the US dollar – where is the wealth and what to expect
- Consumer strength and real estate effects

This lively discussion will challenge perceptions and bring a vital spectrum of expertise to focus on core issues in our rapidly evolving financial environment. In future we plan to explore in-depth the forces in play around the American worker and the forecast in 2010 and beyond.

Panelists:

- Ellen Beeson Zentner, Senior U.S. Macro Economist, The Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ, Ltd.
- Gina Martin Adams, Equity Strategist, Wells Fargo Securities
- Dr. Sherry Cooper, Executive Vice President, Global Economic Strategist, BMO Capital Markets
- Beth Ann Bovino, Senior Economist, Standard & Poor’s

Moderator:

- Vanna Krantz, Chief Financial Officer, Media, Thomson Reuters

The FWA Economic Forums are designed to:

- Present different viewpoints of the issues and economy
- Provide a forum to debate these differing viewpoints
- Showcase the top economists of top Wall Street firms
- Position the FWA as a leader in bringing industry issues to the forefront
- Educate FWA members and the wider business community on critical economic issues

Special thanks Thomson Reuters for hosting this event.
